He advised he was excited to be taking on the job of Chief of Police for Ottawa, the job he started in Nov 2022. He stated that the Ottawa Police Service has gone through a rough almost 2 years but there are many good policemen in the department who are prepared to do the job. He admitted that it has been a bit of a learning curve with its challenges. He advised that he is working closely with Deputy Chief Steve Bell who was here through all of the Convoy turmoil and hopefully things are now getting back on track. He advised that he was pleased to have been asked to come this evening to speak to and meet the members of the ODVA and talk about his new role as Chief of the Ottawa Police Service.
